That is, the death and resurrection of Jesus is remembered, declared, announced. I am not a volunteer.

The Eucharist, on the one hand, gives a believer the conviction that he is plun
The Lord has come and has meet that sinner in that key moment in his life constituted by the moment of conversion and forgiveness. Between the World Wars, the movement kept a relative isolation from other Pentecostal and evangelical groups, but after World War II, the AG started an approximation with Pentecostal groups overseas. Precisely speaking, the Eucharistic presence teaches and actualises the fact that the departure point of salvation is the gratuitous acceptance, in a full act of love, of every man and every reality, as a gift of God.
